BOOK SYNOPSIS

Milton A. Buras knew he was different. While the other boys in his neighborhood were chasing after girls, he was more interested in men. He couldn't articulate his feelings and wouldn't have dared try. This was New Orleans in the 1950s, where homophobia ran deep. Discovering the French Quarter changed everything. There Milton stumbled onto a vibrant, supportive community of drag queens, hustlers, friends, and lovers who helped him accept himself and gave him the courage to follow his dreams. Heartfelt, authentic, and bittersweet, Buras's memoirs move from the colorful, secretive French Quarter to New York, where he made a name for himself as a hair stylist to the stars. He recalls the sometime chaotic and always exciting New York gay community before AIDS changed the world and what came in the decades that followed. Moving, often humorous, and always full of loving memories, "Are You in a Hurry, Dear?" is both a personal account of times gone by and a tale of hope for those who, like Buras once did, seek to find their own place in the world.
